

DISCLOSURE OF THE ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method for evaluating an initial capacity of secondary batteries and, more specifically, to a method for evaluating an initial capacity of secondary batteries that involves mathematical operation of specific internal resistance

5 components obtained from an equivalent circuit model of an impedance spectrum measured for a short time period instead of using direct discharge characteristics, thereby allowing selection of batteries having a different initial discharge characteristic.